Course Overview

This course is designed to introducing the concept of corporate governance and putting it in an international context. With regard to the latter, students learn about different corporate governance systems and models across the world and focusing on specific country examples. In addition, this course also discusses a number of cases where corporate governance failed to provide students with insights on the actual importance of proper corporate governance.

As a course requirement, students need to present (usually in teams of two or three) a specific corporate governance topic and prepare a well-organized handout on key facts (max. 3 pages) for their colleagues.

Learning Outcomes

The course objective is to provide students with a basic understanding of what corporate governance is and how it plays out internationally in terms of differences in systems and models. Additional case studies should further deepen the understanding of corporate governance and what happens when it fails at a company, causing a global impact in the worst case.
