The course might be moved to online delivery due to COVID-19 pandemic. Students will be notified once the decision is made.

Course Overview

Economic analysis of the forces determining an urban area's income, employment, land use, industrial structure, and public sector. Applications to issues such as housing, central city-suburban relationships, transportation, and neighborhood economic development. Students will be trained to estimate the relationship between urban density/city size and a set of economic indicators e.g. GDP per capita and labor productivity, and crime rate.

Course Goals

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1. Use microeconomic theory to explain the location and structure of cities.
- 2. Assess the impact of city ordinances (such as zoning or growth controls) on urban economic development.
- 3. Explain the economic underpinnings of selected urban issues (such as poverty, transportation, education, employment and crime).
- 4. Estimate the relationship between urban density/city size with a set of economic indicators.

Exams

The final exam is not carried out to assess learning outcomes of this unit. Instead, students are expected to conduct research using real world dataset and write a formal report with at least 3000 words in length. This exercise is group oriented. Students are encouraged to form several groups, each of with 4-6 individuals. The final marks are based on the quality of both group report and class presentation.

The following topics are encouraged but not limited to them. Other topics from students are upon approval from instructor:

- 1. A curse or blessing? The role of urban density in Hong Kong.
- 2. Housing market in Hong Kong: the role of land supply.
- 3. The driving forces of housing price in first-tier cities in Mainland China.
- 4. College graduates and housing price in the first-tier cities in Mainland China.
- 5. Capitalizing the environmental quality in Chinese cities: Estimating the willingness-to-pay.

Personal Strategic Plan

- 1. Explain the economic theory using real world context.
- 2. Avoid too much mathematical derivations.
- 3. Focus on real world implications and applications.
- 4. Apply the theory into practice with dataset.
- 5. Formal research training
